TAP series online is approved as long as the course work is facilitated by an approved instructor. A list of Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) approved instructors is available on the TAP website.

IDPH requires all Food Safety Certification training to be supervised by an Illinois certified program administrator or instructor. The training program may be accessed at their location and/or at your home or office. An IDPH approved program administrator or instructor is required to report your training, handle the IDPH paper documentation, and supervise the examination. Additional fees may be charged for these services and may have requirements beyond those of TAP. Ask the program administrator or instructor about these other costs.

Please contact one of the approved program administrators or instructors below to purchase the training and receive the CD-ROM (if needed). The program administrator or instructor you contact will also oversee the document preparation and facilitate the exam.
